Overview of Production of Recordings and Digital Music Delivery in 2007

In 2007 (January to December), the total production value of recorded music (audio and music video recordings) amounted to 391.1 billion yen, representing a decrease of 4% as well as a decline for the ninth consecutive year. Conversely, digital music delivery continued to expand, posting sales of 75.5 billion yen, up 41% from the previous year. This marked an overall increase in the production value of recorded music and digital music delivery sales for the third consecutive year.

Audio Recordings

Production of audio recordings amounted to 267 million units at a value of 333.3 billion yen, down 10% and 5%, respectively, over the previous year. Production value of domestic 5" CD albums was up 1% from the previous year, although international CD albums declined 17% over the previous year. Overall, unit production of 5" CD albums declined 11%, and was down 5% on a value basis.

At the same time, unit production of CD singles declined 9%, and value decreased to 8% over the previous year.

Music Videos

Production value of music video recordings increased 2% versus the previous year. Unit production, which expanded 6% in 2007, has increased steadily every year since 2002 when statistical data was first compiled, despite a year-on-year decline in value in 2004. Both unit production and value have increased for the past three consecutive years.

Digital Music Delivery

Digital music delivery achieved an increase in value of 41%, to 75.5 billion yen, or more than double that of the 34.3 billion yen when statistical data was first compiled in 2005. The overwhelming dominance of mobile digital contents, a distinctive characteristic of the Japanese market, grew even further in 2007. On the basis of sales value, 92% of downloads took place via mobile phones compared to 8% over the Internet.

Particularly noticeable within mobile digital contents was the phenomenal 91% growth in sales of full single track downloads service, which accounted for 51% of all mobile digital contents, and 46% of overall digital music delivery in terms of sales.

Full single track music downloads service has steadily taken root since being introduced for mobile phones in November 2004, and has become the current mainstay contents of digital music delivery supported by the increase of compatible mobile phone terminals and tracks available for download. On the other hand, partial track downloads for ringtone use also held steady with a 1% increase in sales.

Efforts to Combat Illegal Distribution

The Japanese market has increased in combined value of recorded music and digital music delivery for three consecutive years, and it can be said to have demonstrated exceptional performance compared to major overseas markets. However, as to be expected, illegal digital distribution via uploading, which causes enormous damage in respective countries, also adversely impacts the Japanese market and poses a danger to maintaining the intellectual music creation cycle.

In response to this situation, RIAJ is promoting an array of educational campaigns focusing on appealing to the importance of protecting the intellectual music creation cycle.
